Humphreys, Governor of Mississ. ippi.—The troops will be withdrawn from Mississippi when in the opinion of the government peace, order and civil authority has been restored, and can be mainained without them. Every step will be taken while they are there to co force strict discipline ane subordination to civil authority. There can be other or greater assurance given than has beretofore been given on the part of the President or the government, that there no concession required on the part of he people of Mississippi or its Legislature other than loyal compliance with the laws of the United States, and the doption of such measures giving prorection to all freedmen, in person and property, without regard to colors, will ntitle them to resume all their consti tutional rights in the Federal Union. The people of Mississippi may feel well assured that there is no disposition arbitrary on the part of the government to dictate what should be had, but, on the contrary, to simply and kindly advise a policy that is believed will result in restoring all relations which should exist between States comprising the Federal Union. It is boped they will appreciate and feel the suggestions berein made, for they are offered in that spirit which should pervade the bosom of all those who desire peace, barmony and a thorough restoration of the Union. There must be confidence between the people must bave faith in the Government. This must be mutual and reciprocal or all that has been done will be thrown away.
